

The beach provides the best holiday fun for both adults and children. From enjoying a good book in the sun, to building sand castles by the sea, eating ice cream to riding the waves; a sun-soaked beach in a beautiful setting is always a popular destination for holiday makers.

Phu Quoc Island in Vietnam

The magical experience of Phu Quoc starts when you leave the plane at the neighboring Phu Quoc Island airstrip. The island has no vehicles because there are no roads, so you can be sure that your adventure won't be tainted with the sound of traffic. Activities for both children and adults on the Island include watching turtles hatch at dawn, searching the long golden beach for sand dollars and fishing from a dhow. Further, a walk along the narrow alleys of the old town is very refreshing. You can peep through holes in ornate Phu Quoc doors to admire basket weavers, woodcarvers and silversmiths at work. However, far from being a step back into yesteryear – the island is also well accommodated with the modern hotels in Phu Quoc island.

Sardinia in Italy

In addition to its spectacular beaches, Sardinia is home to many scenic and historical tourist attractions. The countryside landscape consists of vast and empty mountainous areas with huge boulders. Children enjoy taking short walks to explore these areas especially its Iron Age fortresses and Neolithic tombs. Further, the Maddalena Islands and Caprera Island have many attractions for the children including the ferry ride, beautiful remote beaches, tranquil forests and wildlife at the national park.

Les-Saintes-Maries-de-La-Mer in France

Les-Saintes-Maries-de-La-Mer is a swampy delta of the Rhone River in the Camargue, France. It is an ideal family holiday destination because it features a nature reserve with abundant wildlife as well as numerous scenic spots for relaxing in the sun. Children can enjoy watching wild bulls and white horses grazing tall reeds and flocks of flamingos, while they can also enjoy riding horses and playing on the long wide sandy beaches. There are nice campsites, cottages and hotels for accommodation throughout the area. Adults can enjoy the culture and music of the Romany and Gypsy communities who visit the area for their religious Gitan Pilgrimage.
